

IT'S TIME TO ZAP THE GOVERNMENT SNOOPS

Equipment used by Federal agencies to monitor electronic communications is being taken out of service. The reason: it's too expensive to maintain. At the same time, the Defense Department is cutting back on its electronic surveillance equipment. The result: a lot of equipment is being sold off.

Continued